

Amtech Lighting Service Announces Promotions

July 5, 2006

SAN FRANCISCO – July 5, 2006 – Amtech Lighting Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of ABM Industries Incorporated (NYSE:ABM), has announced three key management promotions, naming Mark Binns to executive vice president to head operations, David Orr to vice president of administration and finance, and Jay Lewellyn to vice president and regional manager.

A 15-year industry veteran, Mark Binns previously served as senior vice president and has been employed by Amtech for most of his career. David Orr joined the company more than six years ago bringing extensive electrical and lighting industry experience. Jay Lewellyn's career began with ABM in 1985. He rejoined Amtech six years ago and worked as northwest regional manager until his latest promotion.

"Mark's industry experience and outstanding contributions to the company's operations have been a great asset for our continued growth and business development, and we are pleased to have him serve as our executive vice president," said Steven M. Zaccagnini, executive vice president of ABM Industries. "With both David and Jay on our management team with their expanded responsibilities, we will undoubtedly strengthen our operations to further enhance our level of service for customers," he added.

"These promotions along with other personnel changes have repositioned Amtech Lighting to take advantage of the strong backlog and growing demand for work that will contribute to future growth in 2006 and beyond," Zaccagnini concluded.

Amtech Lighting Services provides comprehensive interior, exterior and illuminated sign maintenance programs that significantly reduce long-term energy and service costs. For its exceptional efforts and achievements, Amtech is recognized as a Partner in the government-backed Energy Star program that helps businesses and individuals protect the environment through superior energy efficiency. Amtech Lighting operates 27 full-service branch offices and 64 satellite operations across the country from headquarters in Anaheim, California.
